I'm just gonna rant a bit cuz I feel like it
During a time when I was 13 years old, I really resonated with the song 'I Need Caffeine' and would always be a little bit irritated if this one person would sit at our table during lunch or mornings, but that’s another issue, or if someone just disturbed my writing process on my short story or novel. I'd drink coffee during class breaks because one of my student counselors would let students make it in her office, and even provided some timbits if we needed a sugary pick-up, but probably only one was offered. Anyways, I’d use all of my free time to write, even in class sometimes if I was done with my work or just discreetly. Idk, I was just really bitter and empty sometimes, and caffeine was one of the things that made me feel normal. I even had a few narcissistic signs floating back up, since I usually ahem rawdog mental illness. I find counseling, therapy, opening up, and just stuff like that etc time consuming and would never use the kids helpline cuz I’m gonna admit, that shi is so ass. I’d just listen to edgy music like incelcore, but mostly ‘I Need Caffeine’ by Negative XP sometimes, and only sometimes I’d feel happy about what I wrote. But anyways, yeah, uhh;sldafk, I’m probably gonna rant about some of my classmates sometimes and how I actually extremely dislike/hate sm cuz wtf? Goodnight bro i’m done